

KINGDOM OF MOROCCO

 TURXPLORE

Morocco, composed for you.

A road book before the journey — to look, and to know. Every Turxplore itinerary is still unwritten; this is only a first chapter.

01 — WHEN TO GO

Every season, its own Morocco.

Morocco never quite closes, but it changes face through the year. Spring and autumn remain the most generous seasons: soft light, mild temperatures from coast to desert. Summer belongs to the Atlantic and the Atlas heights; winter, in turn, gives the Sahara its purest nights and Marrakech a climate still gentle by day.

I Spring

March to May. Ideal light, gardens in bloom, perfect temperatures across the country.

III Autumn

September to November. The best compromise: golden light, heat receded, clear skies.

II Summer

June to August. Dry heat inland; favor the Atlantic coast and altitude.

IV Winter

December to February. Cool to cold desert nights, mild days on the coast and in Marrakech.

02 — PRACTICAL INFORMATION

What to know before you go.

CURRENCY

Moroccan dirham (MAD). Cards accepted in hotels and major cities; cash recommended in medinas and the desert.

VISA

Exemption for most European, North American and South American nationals for tourist stays under 90 days — check your own nationality.

LANGUAGE

Arabic and Amazigh, official languages. French is widely spoken; English is common in high-end hospitality.

TIME ZONE

Greenwich Mean Time (GMT). No difference with London; one hour behind Paris in winter, level in summer.

ELECTRICITY

220V, type C and E plugs — the same as continental European standard.

03 — ETIQUETTE & CUSTOMS

Traveling with care.

DRESS

Modest dress is appreciated outside hotels and tourist sites — shoulders and knees covered in medinas and places of worship.

GREETINGS

“As-salamu alaykum” is always well received. Handshakes are offered with the right hand.

PHOTOGRAPHY

Always ask before photographing someone, especially in the souks and away from major sites.

TIPPING

Common and appreciated — our guides and drivers are paid accordingly; tipping remains a free gesture.

RAMADAN

The day's rhythm slows; restaurants for visitors stay open. Quiet discretion in public is appreciated.
